

The federal government should regulate the ownership of television stations. Deregulation of radio in the Buffalo Niagara region is horrible. We used to have a choice but now we have one news one sports and one buisness news station all owned by the same company. There are too many commercials(probably to pay for all the stations they bought) and no choice. Whereas deregulation may work for some buisness areas I feel the American public is too dependant upon television news, for ALL of their information, to let it be open to the highest bidder.
